

GO WILD

Equestrian vaulting event in Argyle

Equestrian vaulting combines gymnastics with horsemanship for some thrilling sports action. The American Vaulting Association is holding its annual conference in North Texas through Sunday.

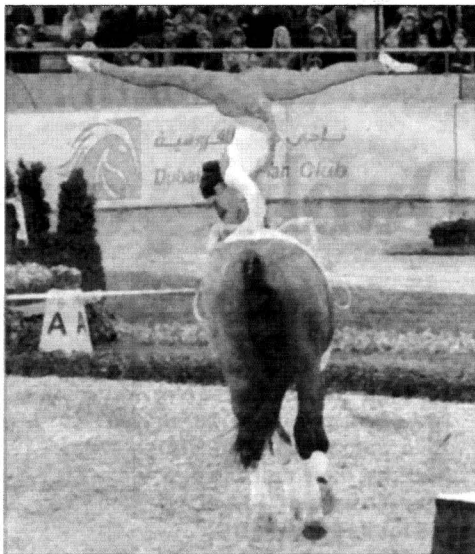

SPOTLIGHT

Most of the conference is open only to association members and conference registrants, but a Saturday event in Argyle called Vault Texas 2007 is open to the public. It will feature vaulting, therapeutic riding and dressage demonstrations, and equestrian drill team performances. The band King Creole will perform. And folks can check out Sparky Sparks and his armadillo racing troupe, mechanical bull rides and vendors selling food and merchandise. Proceeds will benefit American Vaulting Association and Equest therapeutic riding center.

Nancy Moore

Saturday from 6 to 10 p.m. at Stargate Sport Horses, 2700 FM407 E., Argyle. 1-866-558-4253. www.inticketing.com.

▶ $15, free for ages 12 and under.

Mike Ioannou